The congress which ended March 4 appropriated $2,233,470, $990, an excess of more than $80,000,000 over the appropriations of the preceding Republican Congress. Just plain "Democratic simplicity," don't you know?

There is universal regret that former Speaker Cannon is not to participate in the proceedings of the House in the Sixty-third Congress. No man can take his place, for he has created a place all his own in Congress and in National politics.

One of the sweet occupations of old age is recalling the scenes and occurrences of one's youth. So try to store up as many pleasant recollections as possible for a future supply. Among the happiest will be found those of the good we did for others, and the innocent fun we enjoyed.

"Uncle Joe" Cannon, before taking final leave of Washington a few days ago, said, "All performances of Republican Houses fall into utter insignificance in contrast with what the Democratic House of the Sixty-second Congress has accomplished in emptying the treasury and piling up obligations."

Now that the Democratic legislature has made its record and Governor Major has shown his hand in the political game the Republicans are ready for a campaign to restore Republican rule in Missouri. If the Republican State Committee is given proper financial support the party work will be vigorously prosecuted.

St. Louis county is to have two excise commissioners, one a Democrat and the other, presumably, a Republican, both to be appointed by Governor Major, who has a tendency to put a so-called Progressive where a loyal Republican should serve. The tender regard of our Democratic governor for men who are temporarily classed as Progressives is something beautiful.

A Well-Planned Sleeping Porch.

In a pretty bungalow high up a mountain valley in Colorado I found it. I had seen some thousands of other sleeping porches in my journeyings about the State, for the people of Colorado are more avidly outdoor folks than those of any other State, save perhaps California. But this particular sleeping porch was different from any of the others. They had seemed, for the most part, mere house adjuncts, a sort of builder's afterthought put on to accommodate one or two members of the family who solicited a screened-in place just big enough for a bed.

The sleeping porch in question, you felt at a glance, had been part of the original house plan, if not the central idea around which the rest of the bungalow had been schemed. To begin with, it occupied over a fourth of the ground space, for it was the sleeping apartment of the entire family—so designed, so used. There were two dressing-rooms indoors, but no bedroom. By virtue of its size, it was not merely a whole-family sleeping-room, but a delightful living-room by day. After the four single beds had been placed, there was room and to spare for two or three easy chairs, a reading table and a sewing machine. There the housekeeper did all of her sewing and much of her other work.—The Ladies' World and Housekeeper for April.

Spraying Fruit Trees.

By C. M. McWILLIAMS.

It has been common knowledge among fruit growers for a number of years that in order to be successful it is necessary to spray the trees and foliage. This fact is borne out by the experience of hundreds of orchardists every year; not only those who grow fruit on a commercial basis, but it pays equally as well in the case of the small home orchard. Sprays are used to prevent injury to the leaves, fruit and wood of trees and plants caused by insects and diseases.

CLASSES OF SPRAYS.

There are two kinds—first, the poisonous sprays are deposited on the foliage and when eaten by insects that feed on fruit or foliage, kills them. These sprays usually contain arsenic, commonly arsenate of lead. There are, however, insecticides that kill by coming in direct contact with the insects. The second class is known as contact sprays and the type of insects they kill are those that penetrate the surface of the bark and suck the juice from beneath. Lime-Sulphur is the cheapest and commonest of these, although there are a number of preparations, known as miscible oils on the market that are effective.

WHAT TO SPRAY FOR.

One of the most destructive orchard pests is San Jose scale. It has forced nurseries out of business in this county. It is especially destructive to young trees. Lime-Sulphur (a contact spray is used against it). There are a good many fungous diseases such as, Apple Scab, Apple Rust, Black Rot, Apple Blotch, Fly Speck Fungous and Sooty Blotch. In addition to these are biting insects that are very destructive to fruit. Chief of these are the Codling Moth, the pest that causes the wormy apple. Curculio causes faulty, wormy apples that fall from the trees before reaching maturity. There are a number of others, but a spray that will keep those mentioned in check will also be effective against them.

METHODS TO FOLLOW.

The best success that has been obtained by combined spraying for apple diseases and insects with Bordeaux Mixture and Arsenate of lead or a preparation of Lime-Sulphur with arsenate of lead. Three or four sprayings are necessary to combat the pests successfully. The first spraying is best given just before the cluster buds have opened and before the blossoms are entirely opened.

Usual concentration of Bordeaux Mixture, 4:1:50, and two pounds of arsenate of lead is used. Second spraying—just after the blossoms have fallen Bordeaux 2:3:50 and 2½ pounds arsenate of lead. This controls Codling Moth, Apple Rust, Curculio and less important insects. Third spraying—six weeks after bloom falls, Bordeaux 4:4:50 and arsenate of lead 2½ pounds. This destroys the second brood of Codling Moths, should there be any, in some cases the fourth spraying may be dispensed with. Bordeaux Mixture is one of the most effective sprays known and in the proportion given consists of 4 pounds Copper Sulphate, 4 pounds lime and 50 gallons of water.

To get the detailed description of sprays and spraying together with a description and illustration of the most common pests, it is only necessary to send your request on a postal card for Bulletin No. 102 to the College of Agriculture, Columbia, Missouri.

BUSINESS FOR GIRLS.

According to the recent census, it appears that there are nearly a third more females in this country than males; so of course there are not husbands enough to supply the demand. Under this state of affairs there is nothing left for the girls to do but to change their tactics; instead of spending their time and energies in fascinating the beaux, let themselves to work and earn their own livelihood. They can do it, too. Let them calmly and decidedly make up their minds that there is a work in life for them to do, and that they do not propose to throw themselves as martyrs into the matrimonial market to be disposed of to the highest bidder.

If girls have a good, comfortable home, it is far better to abide there, if they can find anything to employ their time and energies, than it is to go among strangers and fight their way. As long as they have a mother to love them; it is well to keep her for in no place can purer happiness be found; after she is gone there will be time enough to buffet the storms of life in the wide world.

A girl can be independent if she chooses, and earn a comfortable living many ways, and it is not the worst misfortune in life to be born a girl; not half as bad as it is to be married to a man that you can neither love nor respect, who makes you a perfect slave to pander to his comfort and humor his caprices. Think well before you make your choice of business.

President Wilson is bent on breaking precedents. He may break his party.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.
Lillian Seasock, Plaintiff, against
William Seasock, Defendant,
Civil action for divorce.

Now at this day comes Lillian Seasock, the plaintiff in the above entitled cause, before the undersigned clerk of the Cape Girardeau Court of Common Pleas of the county of Cape Girardeau, State of Missouri, in vacation and files her petition and affidavit, stating among other things, that the above named defendant, William Seasock, is a non-resident of this state, and so conceals himself that the ordinary process of law cannot be served upon him in this state and is now a resident of the State of Illinois. It is thereupon ordered by the clerk aforesaid in vacation, that publication be made notifying him that an action has been commenced against him by petition in the Cape Girardeau Court of Common Pleas of the county of Cape Girardeau in the State of Missouri. The general purpose and aim of said suit is to dissolve the bonds of matrimony heretofore contracted between the plaintiff and defendant herein for causes stated in plaintiff's petition to-wit: Desertion for one year without just cause and for habitual drunkenness. And that unless said defendant, William Seasock, be and appear at the next term of said court, to be holden at the court house in the city of Cape Girardeau, within the county of Cape Girardeau, State of Missouri, on Monday, the 25th day of May, A. D. 1913, and on or before the third day thereof (if the term shall so long continue, and if not, then before the end of the term), judgment will be rendered against him.

It is further ordered that a copy hereof be published in the Cape County Herald a newspaper published in the said city and county of Cape Girardeau, State Missouri, for four weeks successively, the last insertion to be at least fifteen days before the commencement of the next term of said court.

A true copy.

Hon. Frank A. Wightman, the only Republican member of the Board of Railroad and Warehouse Commissioners, with an unexpired term of nearly four years, is to be appointed a member of the new Public Utilities Commission with a bigger salary. Mr. Wightman deserves it—and he will be one of the most useful members of that board.

"Missouri must be discovered," says the St. Louis Republic. A few months ago when the Republican State administration was trying to establish an Immigration Board, Elliot W. Major and other Democrats asserted that Missouri and her resources are so well known throughout the world that it is unnecessary for the State to do any advertising.

Through the "Democratic simplicity" of the last congress there is to be a deficit in the revenues of the National government in 1914 of about $183,821,626. The same kind of "Democratic simplicity" will leave the Missouri treasury empty with unpaid appropriations aggregating more than a million dollars in excess of the amount of probable revenue.

The Illinois Supreme Court has ruled that fortune telling is not illegal because the seer is paid for his time and not for the information or misinformation he gives. The fundamental idea of obtaining money under false pretenses seems to have been entirely overlooked by the court. The Supreme Court of Illinois would do well to take a few lessons in some correspondence school.

In England, Scotland, France, and some other parts of the continent it was formerly the custom of the young people to meet, write each other's or some of their acquaintances' names on a slip of paper, which were thrown into a box, from which they were drawn, the men taking the girl's names and vice versa. The person thus drawing became one's valentine and for a whole year was compelled to devote himself to the one who drew him.

The Democrats of St. Louis nominated for Mayor a man who was removed from the office of Health Commissioner by the last Democratic mayor of that city—removed under charges sustained by the Circuit Court. They rejected for the nomination one of the most successful and capable business men of the city. The very worst elements of the Democratic party supported Dr. Simon, the successful nominee, though some influences not helpful to any man supported Mr. Norvell. There is a feeling of disgust among the Democrats who crave the best things in politics and many of them will vote for Henry W. Kiel, the Republican nominee, who is a man of fine record in politics and in business, a man capable of giving the city the best administration it has enjoyed in many years.
